VOL. 161 NO. 47 | CAMERON, MILAM COUNTY TEXAS, THURSDAY FEBRUARY 16, 1961 | 12 PAGES TODAY

GLASSPAR'S HERE — The Glasspar Boat Company, of Sherman, opened a 150-boat warehouse in Cameron last week. Here Cameron Manager Willis White stands beside one of the first of 26 boats already in the warehouse facility on W. Batte St. The warehouse facilities were leased from Cameron Compress, owners of the huge 29,000-square-foot facility.

Glasspar Opens Warehouse Here

A firm outside of Central Texas that recognized this city's strategic location and did something about it has come to Cameron.

It is a warehousing operation for Glasspar Boat Co., of Sherman.

Manager Willis White, a recent graduate of Texas A & M College is in charge of the warehouse leased by Glasspar from Cameron Compress.

Located on W. Batte St.the building will house 150 boats when completely stocked, White told The Herald. At presstime, Glasspar had 26 boats in its new Cameron warehouse.

The new warehouse operation will employ White and a repairman. An office is being built inside the huge 29,000 - square-foot building. Both White and the new man will live in Cameron with their families.

"Glasspar picked Cameron because of its strategic location and its warehouse facilities," White said.

The Cameron center will serve Glasspar boat dealers throughout South Texas, the Gulf Coast and Southern Louisiana.

He shows visitors models of the trim - lined, plastic boats by Glasspar which include sizes ranging from small car - type fishing boats to cabin cruisers that take high - powered twin motors to propel them.

"Come on in, the water's fun ....in a Glasspar," White said. "And that's the motto of the company.."

And Cameron welcomed one of its first warehouse business operations.

Ol' With F. M. L. 101

As Cameron heads toward the improvement and probable building of a new library, we cannot help but sense a justifiable sense of community pride that prevails here.

This is the kind of pride that accomplishes difficult tasks, that builds churches, that erects hospitals, that improves business and homes, that attracts industry, that boosts the farmer, that helps schools and ..... builds libraries.

These thing we can see. They are a result of this pride in Milam's 115 - year - old county seat, and are the basis for greater pride in our town.

101 - 101 - 101

That Cameron's many advantages are an attraction is attested by the recent move of a Sherman, Texas manufacturing concern into storage facilities at Cameron Compress.

We learned that about 150 boats will be stored by this concern, taking apparent advantage of the storage facility and Cameron's central location in the state.

It would seem likely this is but the first of such moves where central location for distribution of wares and merchandise is of prime importance.

101 - 101 - 101

Another coming attraction to Cameron will be the Tejas District Scout - O - Rama, bringing to Cameron hundreds of Cub, Boy and Explorer Scouts who will display their skills in March at the National Guard Armory. Two years ago the event was held to a capacity crowd and perhaps thousands will see the show this year.

Titsworth Speaks To Cameron Lions

Cameron Lions Monday heard Dr. Robert M. Titsworth explain the process of disease - free birth of pigs in a talk at The Texan.

Dr. Titsworth recounted the development of the revolutionary process which he will begin in a plant to be opened in a few weeks. He told Lions Club members it would produce 48 disease pigs a month and assure their disease - free growth for the first 30 days of life.

Guardsmen Alert For Special Call During Next Week

Cameron's National Guard will be ready when the signal is given Capt. J. T. Terry, commander of the Cameron unit said Sunday. He referred to the state-wide practice alert expected later this month.

The Cameron unit, Company C of the 49th Division's 3rd, Med. (Patton) Tank Battalion, 112th Armor, will join more than 20,000 other Texas Guardsmen in the exercise which is expected to focus the eyes of Texas on today's "up - to - the minutemen" of the Texas National Guard.

The practice alert, called by the code name "Operation Muster," is to be sounded some time during the period Feb. 18 - 26. No one knows the exact time of the exercise, Capt. Terry said.

The local unit will be notified of the alert through regular National Guard channels after the button is pushed in Austin's Headquarters of the Texas National Guard.

One purpose of the alert is to show the people of Texas the mobilization capability of their modern minutemen.

The other purpose is to test that capability. "None of us know when some disaster might strike" Capt. Terry said. "It behooves us as modern up - to - the minutemen to be ready to respond to the call of the State or Nation."

"We want to show the people of Cameron and Texas that a vast, well - trained organization stands by, ready and alert. And we want to find out just how ready and alert that organization is."

Cameron Guardsmen received a comprehensive briefing on the alert at their regular drill Sunday.

C of C Expects 85 To Enter Poultry Show In Cameron

State Cites City's Water Dept. Head

AUSTIN — An official State Health Department citation was awarded this week to Alvin Hefft, Cameron city water plant superintendent, for proficiency in plant management.

The certificates of competency, signed by the state commissioner of health and authorities of the Texas Water and Sewage Works Association, credit recipients with having demonstrated "skill and knowledge" of water treatment plant management and an understanding of the public health importance of the work.

Under the State Health Department's operator certification program, operators are carefully examined on their technical ability and on their knowledge of their work's influence on community health. Each must pass a stiff written test to qualify for certification.

The Texas general sanitation law requires that a least one plant operator per shift be certified by state health agency, but other plant personnel and persons in related fields frequently seek certification on their own time and at their own expense to advance themselves professionally and to increase their efficiency as vital public servants.

"The recipients of these certificates are a credit to their prifession and to their community," sponsors of the program said.

Points toward certification are earned through actual work experience and by attendance at annual district and state short schools sponsored and conducted by the Texas State Department of Health, the engineering extension service of Texas A & M College, and the Texas Water and Sewage Works Association.

As had been the custom in years past, Mayor Coleman Duncum has designated, through an official proclamation, Friday as World Day of Prayer in Cameron. Church chimes will ring during the day to remind citizens of Cameron to join millions throughout the world to pray for a peaceful world.

Mall Showing Planned For Annual Broiler Show

About 85 entries and Cameron C of C sponsors are expected in the annual Junior Broiler Contest April 29, according to Bill Burns chairman of the Chamber poultry committee.

Burns announced that sponsors will meet the anticipated 85 FFA and 4-H entrants 4 p. m. Friday, February 24.

The Broiler Show to be combined with a Cameron Mall at the Courthouse Square, is set for Saturday, April 29, he said. A banquet will be held that evening for contestants and their sponsors.

"Chickens will be judged by recognized judges on standard points for broiler shows and cash prizes and ribbons will be awarded in each class," the committee chairman said.

Each contestant will pick five show chickens from the 50 chicks given this month. The best five will be entered in the contest in April, he continued.

Committee members met recently to outline show plans and to recommend the annual Cameron Mall be held in conjunction with the poultry show. They agreed that April was a better weather month for a Mall showing of farm equipment, trucks and autos and house wares.

Contestants will take chicks and raise them according to standards approved by FFA and 4-H standards.

Burns said that each contestant will present his five show chickens to his sponsor and the remainder of the flock will go to the contestant.

Texas Trades Quail, For Nebraska Chicks

AUSTIN — Greater prairie chickens from Nebraska will be given an opportunity to get a foothold in Texas, according to H. D. Dodgen, executive secretary of the Game and Fish Commission. Twenty of these birds were flown into Texas last week and released on the Flat Top Ranch, southwest of Fort Worth.

More of the birds will also be brought in as they are trapped in Nebraska, according to the secretary. Texas is giving scaled quail in exchange for the prairie chickens. These quail are being trapped in the Trans - Pecos country, where there is an abundance of birds and a short supply of food.

On another exchange, more than 100 Rio Grande wild turnkeys from the King Ranch have been shipped to Hawaii. This also is on an exchange basis and will give the newest state a start of Texas propagated birds.

In recent months there has been an import of stripers from California, which were planted in Kemp Lake near Wichita Falls. Fruit and nut trees should be fertilized, pruned and sprayed with a dormant oil spray during February. The oil spray should be applied before the trees bloom and leaf out. Nursery men report good sales of fruit and nut trees and we should make every effort to give these trees the proper care.

Planning Needed For Farming As In Industry

COLLEGE STATION — Modern farming is a competitive business and the individual operator should keep this in mind when planning his enterprises, says C. H. Bates, extension farm management specialist. In order to obtain maximum profits, operators of commercial farms should study every available means of boosting returns.

The first step in this plan-for-profit program is to weigh the price prospects for the farm's major cash enterprises and determine how seasonal price variations will affect potential returns. The decision of whether or not a greater volume of individual output will result in maximum net profit must be made, Bates explains.

Generally, higher production per acre or per animal should mean higher profits but greater risk is involved in seeking the very highest yields for some crops. It is therefore wise to count the extra cost and consider this risk before aiming at the top production figure.

Regardless of the price situation, however, the greatest emphasis should be toward the highest degree of efficiency -- cutting labor and other unit costs, the specialist continues. This can be accomplished by taking advantage of the latest technological advances. Replacement of hand labor with machines and the use of proven fertilizers and insecticides are ways of putting this technology to work.

In short, every opportunity must be taken to assure lower production costs per unit, says Bates, This requires a strong desire on the part of the operator to improve his decision - making skills. More brainwork is an essential ingredient.

The county agricultural agent is ready to help with any of these problems. If you have a plan to increase profits.

Cotton Allotment Affects Economy

COLLEGE STATION — Cotton is a commodity which creates a good "multiplier" effect in the economy, says Cecil Parker, extension economist, because most of the cotton farmer's dollar is usually dropped into the money stream of the community. Though the dollar's identity may be quickly lost, it tends to circulate through all the avenues of trade and commerce.

The loss of cotton income, on the other hand, can adversely effect a community's whole economy, points out Parker. For that reason, he adds, unused cotton allotments are a matter of community concern.

The law under which cotton farmers are now operating contains provisions for the voluntary release and reallotment of 1961 cotton allotments. Where the release is made, the released acreage is retained on the releasing farm as history and used in figuring future allotments. But, Parker points out, it will not qualify a farm for an old farm allotment as having planted cotton in one of the three previous years. If all the farm allotment is released for three consecutive years, the farm loses its eligibility for an old farm allotment.

In order to expedite the release and reallocation of 1961 acreage allotments, the state has been divided into five zones by the State Agricultural Stabilization Committee and final dates set in each for releasing cotton acreage. The final date for releasing allotments in the San Antonio, Corpus Christi, Laredo area is February 17. In Zone 2, the Austin-Houseon area, the final date is February 24. Final date in Zone 3, Northeast third of the State is March 3. April 7 is the final date for Zone 4, far West and West Central Texas and April 14 is the last day cotton producers in Zone 5, Northwest Texas, can release allotments.

These same dates, points out Parker, are also the final dates for producers in the different zones to file applcations for additional allotments. That is, acreage in addition to the cotton allotment already established for a farm.

Because of the complex situation which exist on many cotton farms, Parker strongly recommends that producers contact their county ASC office for details on how the release and reallotment program can effect their future cotton production plans. Some mighty important decisions are involved, he says.

PM

Mrs. Anna Slama joined by Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Ernst of Rosebud and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Frerichs of Temple went to Dallas Friday to attend her grandson's Wedding Eugene Ernst to Linda Morris at the Sacred Heart Cathedral.

Modern farming is a competitive business and the successful farmers, believes C. H. Bates, extension farm management specialist, must plan just as carefully as does this counterpart in industry.

Home Agent Notes

Ways To Make Home Kitchen More Convenient

By Frances H. Johnson
Milam Home Demonstration Agent

Does work in your kitchen tire you? If so, why not check your storage arrangement for equipment and supplies. Convenient storage can save you lots of time and energy.

Plan for the best use of space inside your kitchen cupboards. Here are some suggestions: Get rid of (or store some other place) all utensils and supplies you are not using. Store utensils, dishes and supplies at places where you first use them. Store together the things you use together.

Use the easy to reach and easy to see spaces for things you use most often. Place utensils, dishes, cutlery and food supplies so that moving one to get another is not necessary. Put only like kinds of things in front of each other on a shelf. Stack together only things of the same size and kind. Plan to keep on the same shelf only things of about the same height. Use your measuring stick, pencil and paper to fit storage space to things you store.

Allow for clearance at the top and sides. One to 2 inches are needed at the top. Make storage space easy to clean. Shelves and partitions should be removable and surfaces should be smooth. Keep in mind that you will need storage space for future purchases. Store mixing bowls, platters, plates and pans of different shapes singly on shelves and in drawers.

To see some of these storage ideals sketched and illustrated, get a copy of Extension Leaflet 348, Arrange your Kitchen for Convenience and Comfort, from the county Extension office.

Jefferson Davis Elected

Confederates Elect Davis

By Robert Stonedale
Cameron Herald Correspondent

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — The Honorable Jefferson Davis, a former U. S. Secretary of War and until recently U. S. Senator from Mississippi, has been unanimously elected to the presidency of The Confederate States of America.

The president - elect has been notified of his election by telegraph, and is now enroute to Montgomery from his plantation home near Vicksburg. Inaugural ceremonies will take place here later this week.

The election, which was held three days ago, followed the adoption of a constitution for the government of the Confederacy.

The presidential balloting was preceded by considerable behind the scenes maneuvering, during which the candidacy of Howell Cobb of Georgia was much in evidence. Although Robert Toombs of Georgia and Robert Barnwell of South Carolina had been mentioned as possible candidates, no nominations other than Davis and Cobb were offered.

Before the balloting began, R. Barnwell Phett of South Carolina claimed that Davis is egotistical arrogant and vindictive and lacks depth or statesmanship.

Robert Barnwell ignored his cousins indictment and endorsed Davis as, '.....honorable, experienced and devoted to the ideal of Southern Independence."

Rhett has lost some of his following in recent weeks due to his fire - eating and war - hawking sentiments, and the South Carolina delegates finally agreed to cast their ballots in a block for the Mississippian who is known to favor a policy of peaceful separation from the North.

On the first ballot in the electoral college, Davis tallied 197 votes and Cobb votes was credited with 12. The Georgia delegation then requested permission to change its vote, and the election was declared unanimous. The Honorable Alexander Stephens of Georgia was then elected vice - president, also by unanimous vote.

The new Constitution was adopted the day before the election and is very similar to the Federal document. It contains, however, explicit guarantees against the tyranny of a central government over the State and rectifies certain of the oversights which have led to the present tragic condition of the Old Union. Its preamble states the aims of the South in noble and familiar terms:

"We the people of the Confederate States, each State acting in its sovereign and independent character, in order to form a permanent Federal government, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, invoking the favor and guidance of Almighty God, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the Confederate States of America."

The historic document specifically outlaws the foreign slave trade and arranges for measures to negotiate with the Union for the settlement of public debts and the return of Southern Propery. It was approved unanimously.

While the Congress has been busy with the framing of the Constitution and the election of officers the military forces of the South have not been idle.

The harbor at Pensacola, Florida trembles on the brink of armed conflict as a daily series of messages pass between the opposing commanders. Since the Federals withdrew offshore to Ft. Pickens on Santa Rosa Island, there have been daily meetings between Co. W. H. Chase, commanding the Southern forces, and Lt. Adam J. Slemmer of Co. G, First U. S. Artillery Regiment.

Although several polite requests have been addressed to the Federals requesting them to abandon the property which they now occupy illegally, they have refused to cooperate.

Three days ago, the USS "Brooklyn" arrived in the bay and now stands off the island. The warship has not attempted to land the artillerymen on board, since such an action would have resulted in immediate hostilities. Provisione for the Federal garrison have been landed, however.

For the past several days Lt. Slemmer has been complaining to Co. Chase regarding the constution of artillery emplacements by the Southerners which he contends in a violation of the informal the complaints, pointing out that for each gun he has placed in position, the Yankees have erected three. As a result a powder keg situation exists and the first casual sentry's shot may bring on a wild battle for possession of the harbor.

The president - elect is expected to urge immediate legislation enabling him to treat with the Northern government for the removal of the forces at Pensacola, and those at Charleston, before an armed clash occurs. It is hoped that this can be accomplished before the inauguration of the Lincoln administration early next month, since it is felt that the abolitionists will refuse to cooperate in the Confederate efforts to avoid incidents which might lead to war.

"Government should do for people only what people cannot do for themselves"

... Abraham Lincoln

America's abundance of good things and its strength as a nation have grown by the principle of freedom . . . freedom of people to plan and work and build as they choose as expressed by this quotation of Abraham Lincoln. This principle must be constantly guarded if we are to preserve our American way of life.

By this principle, America's investor-owned electric utility companies have grown. Today, the bulk of electric power used in our nation is supplied by these companies . . . and, they are ready and able to supply more as it is needed. For example, in the next ten years, America's independent electric power industry will spend about $50 billion to meet the need for nearly double its present supply of power.

There are those who propose that the Federal government spend new billions of the taxpayers' money on more government-owned electric plants and lines. It is difficult to justify such expenditures in light of the accomplishments and plans of investor-owned power companies and the words of Lincoln, ". . . only what people cannot do for themselves".

YOU'D HAVE TO TRAVEL MILES AND MILES, OR SEND AWAY TO A CATALOGUE HOUSE. YOU WOULDN'T LIKE THIS . . . EVEN A LITTLE BIT!

IT CAN'T HAPPEN.... IF YOU SHOP AT HOME!

You wouldn't want to live in a town without stores. You want stores NEARBY for the things that can't wait. Like a prescription that must be filled in a hurry. Or a new shirt when your supply runs out. But every time you go out of town for something you DON'T need in a hurry you make it that much harder for local stores to stay in business and be on hand to serve your "convenience" or "emergency needs". Out-of-town buying hurts them, hurts your hometown.. and ultimately hurts you!

The dollars you spend at home help pay local taxes and maintain local services, employment and business stability. Most important, they help keep loocal stores in business for your convenience. It pays YOU best to shop hometown stores FIRST for ALL your needs. The money you spend here does DOUBLE DUTY FOR YOU.

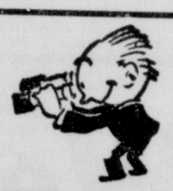
VIEW ON SPORTS



— WITH ROBERT MANN —

With basketball season over and done with at Yoe High School, interest is currently turning to Coach Wallace Johnson's track team.

Johnson, 41, and with 13 years of track coaching experience under his well - fitted belt is a little hesitent to say what to expect from the school's cinder eam.

A smiling, slow - talking, 190 Texan from Palestine, Johnson has coached in schools rated from B classification to 4A. Last year he headed Cedar Hill of Dallas to a second place district finish and sent one of his tracksters to the state meet in pole vaulting. Cedar Hill is a 4A school. Previous to Cedar Hill he coached in Houston's Spring Branch from 1953 - 58.

Twenty - five boys are out for the cinder sport thus far. seven of these are Jr. Track Team members and eight of the bunch are seniors.

Cameron's first meet was with Taylor and Georgetown in Taylor, Wednesday.

VOS

"Although a good coach is the main key to a good track team," says Johnson, "one good boy who known his stuff in broad jumping, hurdling or some other event, is the best coach you can have."

"If you have a hurdle with perfect form and clean habits in every thing he does, othermembers of the track team can-t help but copy his style."

VOS

Johnson thinks he will be able to tell more about the Yoemen's possibilities after a couple of meets, although he will be hanging and switching some boys events right up to district meet day.

Outdoors In Texas

By Vern Sanford

Warsaw is a city in Poland. Warsaw also is the name of a fish -- a hugh deep - sea fish that moves in, around the offshore banks, during January, February and March.

A member of the giant sea bass family, this fish will range from "babies" of 30 to 40 pounds to "gramps " of 200 to 300 pounds.

These fish are the "extra added attractions" to the Texas Gulf coast's red snapper fishing during the cold weather months.

Actually warsaw can be caught the year around, but getting to them in the summer means a long long boat ride. The fish move to the banks near shore only in the winter.

Close banks are those 20 to 40 miles offshore. During the summer the fish are caught in much deeper water at the banks 70 to 150 miles out.

The warsaw doesn't have gamefish qualities. No leaping or surface cavorting like a tarpon or sailfish; no reel - singing runs of a kingfish.

But the warsaw appeals to thousands of fishermen -- sports and professionals alike. It's a fish that will stock your freezer with choice eating for months to come.

Commercian fishermen go after the big warsaw with nylon handlines testing 200 - pounds. They're in the business of selling fish and aren't concerned with fighting the fish. They're in a hurry to deck the brute and then try for a second third and so forth.

Some commercial fishermen have regular warsaw reels which they slip into sockets on the boat's rails. They call them "bicycle reels". That is exactly what they resemble -- crank handles, sprocket, chain drive and all. Other fishermen use small deck winches to do the job.

Most sports fishermen, however, prefer to battle the warsaw with rod and reel. They may miss the leaps and long runs of gamefish, but they can count on a warsaw giving them a real tug-of - war.

Most popular warsaw bait is a big sand trout, or a small red snapper -- a two or three pounder. The sinker usually weighs a pound. You need that much weight to reach bottom in 50 to 60 feet of water if there is any kind of current running.

Warsaws don't make sudden strikes, so you don't have to be prepared for a sudden jolt. Instead the fish sort of "inhales," the bait and then starts to swim back toward its den or hole in the coral formations.

Your first job is to turn the fish, keep it from getting back into the hole. It means putting a tremendous strain on the rod. If the fish gets back in the hole, you'll probably lose it since the sharp coral will cut the line.

A warsaw is strickly a bottom fish. That's where he does all his fighting.

Once you get the fish moving up, he's yours unless you goof and give him sufficient slack line to dive.

If you get the fish halfway up, he's generally licked for the change in water pressure will cause his stomach to burst and render him helpless. He'll come up quick then. All that remains is to slip a rope through his mouth and gills and haul him aboard.

You need large hooks and a long wire lead as terminal tackle. Your rod and reel should be of the big - game variety. Some sportsmen beat the work of having to reel in the fish by using electric reels. Most charter boats running bank trips have electrical outlets for such reels.

Warsaw runs usually start in January, although if the weather is usually cold they are often caught in December. Most consistent warsaw catches are made in February and March. The runs taper off after that.

Earlier I referred to the fish as an "extra added attraction" to winter snapper fishing. Actually not many sportsmen go out solely for warsaw. They go out after the big - sow red snappers. Then if they find warsaw around, they try for them.

Usually the firshermen put one line over the side of the boat for snapper and a second one for sarsaw. That way they're sure of bringing home some kind of meat.

Speaking of meat, warsaw flesh is delicious. It's white and firm.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Angell and daughter Janet and Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Angell visited in Mississippi over the weekend as guests of the Angell's daughter and hards and Tammy.

Library Plans Begins Tonight....

Cameron's Public Library Board and interested Cameron residents will meet with the acting state librarian from Austin tonight to discuss feasible plans for getting new library facilities here.

In a rapid succession of events last week, the library board, City of Cameron, Cameron School Board and the Cameron Delphian Club, along with the Civic Garden Club, moved this city closer to a new library.

Cameron now has a new site, set aside by the city. And the meeting tonight will develop further information on what Cameron can use in a library and how it can be built.

Like many other projects, both public and private, this undertaking will involve the interests of the entire community to achieve it. That it will be a success will be assured by wide interest and support behind what expert advice suggests for the city.

A worthier project could not present itself. A well-planned library will add depth to the heightened interest in accademics among students. And adults will, as in the past, have a good center for outside reading.

The City Library supplements books used in school work. A wider range of volumes will boost that reading department.

It is certain that the Library Board and the other groups boosting the Library idea will submit planning to the residents for their consideration.

And it will be worthy in the same light, as Little League Baseball, new churches, hospitals, homes and business improvements.

Lumumba Death Kindles Fire....

Patrice Lamumba's death at the desire of the Kasavubu government in the Congo brings forth some alarming considerations.

It tests the strength of UN policy in a divided African country. And at the same time, it poses the question: "Can these new independent nations handle their internal problems with West, East and the UN striving to balance African politics.

Kasavubu's government showed a certain contempt for any UN investigation. They practically dare the UN to question the cause of Lumumba's death.

Of course UN Secretary Dag Hammersjold has called for an immediate study of the situation.

The rankling forces in the Congo will explode over Lumumba's martyrdom. Already world opinion seeking a reason to rebell at authority is taking up Lumumba's death as cause to rally.

It is a remarkable thing that a Central African nation, not yet a year old, can be the pivotal point for the success or failure of the United Nations and continuing expansionist plans of the Soviet Union.

Political scientists often have said that an explosive war, possibly to involve the world, would be more likely to develop in a small nation.

How true this could be in the Congo. Civil War there would test the diplomatic strength of both East and West and the UN in between. Stresses might cause a much wider break between East and West.

It is cause for concern.

Legislators Note Capitol Events

WASHINGTON — Senator Ralpn Yarborough said this week he will be a co - author of an Area Redevelopment Bill, Senator Bill No. 1, along with Senator Paul Douglas, D-Ill. which is the Democratic Administration's major proposal to boost depressed area economies.

Senator Yarborough said that 144 of 254 Texas counties have lost population in the past decade, including 30 counties which average annual net farm income per family of less than $1,000.

He said the bill:

"1. Will send technical specialists to the affected areas to help plan needed improvement;

"2. Will provide low interest rate loans for construction of new plant facilities;

"3. Will establish vocational retraining programs for jobless workers with subsistence payment during this retraining period, to prepare them for new jobs in the new local plants requiring new skills."

He termed the program "responsible and a self - help program that is vital to our national economy."

"We can either seek to stimulate the over - all economy so that those people without jobs can move out of their old home towns to some other places. Or, we can rebuild the economy of that distressed town and help the local people establish and develop new industry to create new jobs in their home town enviroment."

He furthtr said that "with costs of living at an all - time high, thousands have been driven off their farms and into the cities to look for work. Instead of finding the steady work they need, too often they simply join the ranks of the jobless in the city. This has caused 'spotted prosperity'."

WASHINGTON — Congressman W. R. Poage reported this week he expected to start work on a agriculture bill following House Agriculture Committee talks with Sec. of Agriculture Orville Freeman and Congressman Cooley, chairman of that House committee.

He reported reflections on the developments of the past 20 years in the livestock committee:

QUOTE: "Within the past 20 years the livestock industry has passed more and more into the hands of small producers. Along with this development of the "livestock farmer" as distinguished from the large "ranchman,' we have witnessed the development of a great many local livestock auctions all over the country. We have some very good auctions in Central Texas. Most of them are run by honorable and capable men who render a real service. They provide a needed local market, which should be especially helpful to the small producer. However, in the early years there were many racketeers in the business. There are still a few unrealiable individuals, just as there are in every business, but we have been able to pass laws which generally protect sellers and buyers from most of the direct financial irresponsibility of the past.

"We cannot, however, pass laws to regulate the speech of auctioneers. Indeed, lots of people seem to feel that it adds to the interest of the Auction to hear someone sing out a lot of uninelligible noise like the tobacco auctioneers do.

"Ten, or even five years ago, I could go to an auction and pretty generally understand what was going on. Last December I went to an auction, but I could not tell what cattle sold, who they sold to, or how much they brought.

I Give You Texas

By Boyce House

One of the most resounding phrases I ever heard in a political campaign goes back to a race for governor in Arkansas many years ago. The leading contender, as the contest began to shape up, was a big impressive - looking attorney who was considered by some as being a bit on the egotistical side. He hailed from a town on the bank of the Ouachita -- (pronounced "Wash-e-taw") -- river.

The field was large and one of the entries seemed to have filed for the sole purpose of seeing that the favorite was defeated. At any rate, this candidate devoted his speeches almost entirely to criticism and ridicule of the rivertown aspirant whom he called "the proud peacock Napoleon of the Ouachita." (Another candidate was the victor.)

Sometimes, one wonders how some businessmen have been able to keep their doors open, they know -- or practice -- so little of good public relations.

For instance, a store in a large Texas city, a while back, had a window filled with shoes and a large sign, "Big Sale -- Save up to Half." A small sign read, "Shoes on display not included in the sale.'

"Shoes on display not included in the sale."

One year after a big bowl game (not in Texas) the coach of one of the teams complained that he had been unable to obtain hotel rooms for two friends, whereupon the head of a leading hotel was quoted in the press as saying, "I doubt that Coach So - and - so has two friends."

House Finds Path Lined With Feuds

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN — House of representatives, which must make the first run at putting together a money-raising program, is finding its path land - mined with factional feuds.

Hard feelings, largely because of the speaker race, has reached Hatfield - McCoy proportions between liberals and conservatives. Until new events jar the factions into realignment, action and agreeance is unlikely.

House Revenue and Taxation Committee began gradually by passing out two unopposed bills to speed up and cut down the paper work of tax collecting. More sand will be stirred up with the February 15 hearing of a bill to levy a two - factor franchise tax on interstate corporations.

Two other committees are the focus of tax interest. Proposal for a referendum on broad-based taxes at the April 4 election was referred to State Affairs Committee. Its chairman, Rep. Bill Hollowell ot Grand Saline, has shown no great eagerness to get to it.

Constitutional Amendments Committee, however, moved, with unusual speed. It passed out a measure that would allow the people to vote on whether they want a constitutional ban on state income and payroll taxes.

Among new money measures introduced are a 2 per cent sales tax on items costing more than $50 and a 3 per cent excise tax on utility companies selling gas, electricity, telephone or telegraph service. Both are by Rep. Tony Korioth of Sherman.

WATER BILLS HEARD

Two bills aimed at making more money available for water projects met no opposition before a House committee.

One would raise from $5,000,000 to $15,000,000 the maximum amount the State Water Development Board could lend for a water project. Another would allow the Water Board to invest funds on hand in government securities.

Both bills, which were recommended by Gov. Price Daniel's water advisory committee, were sent to subcommittee.

INVESTIGATING PANEL APPROVED

House State Affairs Committee unanimously approved a resolution to create a new House General Investigating Committee.

Previous investigating committee, which made headlines in Beaumont and Amarillo, expired with the start of the new session.

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., Director of the Department of Public Safety and numerous Jefferson County people appeared in favor of a legislative group to watch for places where local law enforcement fails to cope with crime.

Named to the committee by Speaker James Turman are: Rep. Charles L. Ballman of Borger; chairman; Reps. Bill Hollowell of Grand Saline, DeWitt Hale of Corpus Christi, Bill Pieratt of Giddings and Menton J. Murray of Harlingen.

MORE ELBOW ROOM

Building of new state buildings is relieving the always-cramped conditions under which the legislature has had to work.

Under a bill adopted by both houses, the Senate will get the third floor Capitol space vacated by the Court of Criminal Appeals. House members are to have offices where the Supreme Court used to be. Both courts and the attorney general have moved over to the new Courts Building.

When the second new state office building is completed, the State Pardons Board and Agriculture Department are to move there, leaving still more Capitol space.

Also under way finally is the new state insurance building. Contracts totaling $1,227,000 were let by the State Building Commission.

Payroll Tax Bill May Not Pass Vote

AUSTIN (Special) — Senator Jarrard Secrest predicted today the Legislature would not pass the payroll tax recommended by Governor Daniel. "This tax proposal has created absolutely no enthusiasm in the House or Senate, and I think it will certainly be defeated," Secrest said on his weekly television report Sunday afternoon.

The Central Texas senator admitted that a tax bill would be necessary this session, but felt it was too early to know the exact form it would take. "Thinking persons are aware that with the growth of Texas additional revenue is essential even after effecting all reasonable economies", Secrest continued in his TV report. "What it will be is hard to say at this time," Senator Secrest said, "but it won't be a payroll tax. As one legislator remarked, "I can find no one against it except employers and employees'."

U. S. Senate Campaign .....

Poll Says Blakley, Tower Lead Race

Senator William A. Blakley of Dallas and John G. Tower of Wichita Falls are the leading candidates in the U. S. Senate race, according to a private poll conducted by the Belden Associates, well known Texas research organization.

The statewide survey announced Saturday also showed Blakley is the favorite in several possible runoff combinations.

Attorney General Will Wilson of Dallas ranked third in Belden's poll. State Senator Henry B. Gonzalez of San Antonio was fourth and Congressman Jim Wright of Fort Worth was fifth.

Blakley leaders said the poll bears out their contention that Blakley, now serving an interim term in the Senate, is "the leading Democrat in the race." They declared he will "substantially lead Republican Tower or any other candidate."

In the event of a runoff between Blakley and Tower, the poll showed Blakley leading with 47 per cent to Tower's 30. Twenty-three per cent of the voters said they were undecided.

In a Blakley - Wilson runoff, Blakley would lead with 40 per cent to the attorney generals 33. 33.

If Blakley and Wright should be in a runoff, Bleden's poll showed Blakley would win with 54 per cent. Wright's runoff strength was 15 per cent, undecided, 31.

One of the interesting findings was the relatively small undecided vote for this period in a statewide campaign.

In a comparison of all candidates' names on a "recognition" basis, Blakley and Wilson were equally well known. Eighty-one per cent of persons polled were familiar with Blakley's name 81 per cent with the name of the attorney general, who has just recently made his third statewide race for that office. LITTLE RIVER PHILOSOPHER

Fool-Proof Way To Find Out If Country Is Well Off Or Not

Dear editar:

You couldn't call me an economist, although I have one qualification a good many of them have -- I have more ideas on economics than I have credit at the bank -- but I have been puzzled lately by what the experts are saying about the state of the national economy.

As I understand it, the experts are split. One group says the country is in pretty good shape, nothing to worry about; the other group says we're in rather serious shape, there's plenty to worry about.

Now personally I have never had to wait on a group of experts to tell me whether I was well off or not. I have never based my economic position at any given moment on what a national survey has found out about me. No doubt it takes a group of experts to find out what the national economic growth rate is, but in my case all I have to do is look out the back door with a view of this Johnsongrass farm and remember what my last bank statement showed.

However, I recognize that what my economic position is and what the national economic position is, are two different things. I don't reflect the country as a whole, and I hope the country as a whole doesn't reflect me. The situation couldn't be that serious.

But it does seem pretty confusing to have the experts in Washington disagreeing so completely on whether the country is well off or not, it's not fair to have Congress not knowing whether to raise taxes because a booming country can afford it or to lower them because a declining country can't and therefore I have hit on an idea for settling the matter.

The thing to do is to let the Supreme Court decide it. Let some lawyer bring suit. I don't know who against, the United States Treasury, I guess, claiming the country is in bad shape and therefore taxes ought to be lowered. He could start the suit in a local court, work it on up through the state court and finally on up to the Supreme Court, and along about this time next year, or the year after, the court would rule, and its opinion would thus become the economic law of the land. Then we could all settle down and look back and know for sure that back in February, 1961, the country was either well off or bad off, by a five to four decision of the Supreme Court.

Yours Faithfully,
J. A.

TELEPHONE TALK
by C. L. Carson, Manager

NEW DEVELOPMENTS

The telephone company gets a great deal of publicity from some of its work in the electronic communication field where the results are spectacular like our recent experiments in bouncing a telephone call off of one of our satellites. But to me, other developments in the field of helping those unfortunate enough to be deaf or to be unable to speak are just as important By their very nature these items get very little publicity but they mean so much to those affected. For example:

An electronic larynx which provides a substitute for the sound of vocal cords for a person whose human larynx has been removed or paralyzed has been introduced in this area by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

The electronic devise, which weighs only seven ounces and looks much like an electric razor. transmits sound waves into the throat cavity replacing those normally produced by air passing over the vocal cords. Speech is produced by forming words with teeth. tongue and lips, just as in normal talking.

The company will make the electronic larynx available to laryngetomized persons for $45, which is the cost of manufacturing the device.

Some 20,000 persons in the United States are without the power of speech as a result of paralysis or surgical removal of the human larynx and must depend on esophageal speech or an artificial larynx to talk.

If you know any one who has lost their power of speech, tell them to get in touch with our business office, OX 7-4601, we may be able to help them.

BELL TELEPHONE HOUR FROM DISNEYLAND

This promises to be one of the most unusual programs ever presented on television. Disneyland will be the scene of "Sounds of America," to be presented in color on the Bell Telephone Hour ovr NBC-TV, Friday, February 17 at 8 p.m. The program has been called a "musical memoir," for it describes — in music and action — the sounds of our American yeterdays and nostalgic fantasies. The show will feature the music of Gordon Jenkins, the dancing of Gene Nelson, Jacques D'Amboise, the Earl Twins and the Disneyland Dancers. I'll be watching, and hope you will be, too.

Call by number. It's twice as fast.

SS Tax Rate For Old Age Still 3 Percent

Social Secruity tax rates for old-age benefits are still 3 per cent, R. L. Phinney, District Director of Internal Revenue today reminded Austin District employers.

Phinney said he was issuing this reminder in response to a large number of calls still coming in about an insert mailed to employers with the Quarterly Federal Tax Return, Form 941.

He stated that the Social Security tax remains the same, three per cent withheld from the employee's wages, and three per cent by the employer, or a total of 6 per cent. These rates apply to the first $4,800 wages.

MRS. KENNETH WAYNE PATRANELLA

Miss Young Weds Kenneth Patranella

White gladioli, greenery and candelabra decorated All Faith's Chapel on the Texas A & M College campus for the January 29 wedding of Miss Jonnie Elaine Young and Kenneth Wayne Patranella.

Rev. Robert F. Polk Jr., pastor of the Central Baptist Church, officiated at the double ring ceremony after music by Miss Mary Lou Stanford, soloist accompanied by Miss Ann Stanford, organist.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. J. Z. Young of Bryan and the late Mr. Young and Mr. and Mrs. Luke M. Patranella of Bryan.

Given in marriage by C. B. Hewitt, the bride chose a formal gown of creptal white silk taffeta fashioned in the heirloom tradition. Delicate re - embroidered Alencon lace framed the portrait necklined, long - sleeved bodice.

The fitted figurine bodice enhanced the dome shaped skirt. A panel of the Alencon lace traced the very straight lined skirt that swept to elaborate back fullness and a circular chapel length train.

Her fingertip length veil of illusion was attached to a crown of pearls. She carried a bridal bouquet of white rosebuds, entwined with English ivy tied with white streamers, atop a white Bible, the groom's gift to the bride.

Miss Ann Porter, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Kay Hart, Ellen Trenckman, Ellen Ann Wynn of Palestine and Nancy Hewitt, junior bridesmaid.

Serving as best man was Joe Wilder, Groomsmen were Brazos Varisco, Ronnie Marshall, Jack Connor and Make McDermott Jr. of Cameron. Mr. Marshall and Mr. Connor also served as candlelighters. Junior usher was Tommy Hewitt while Cheryl Patronella was flower girl.

The bride's attendants, carrying bouquets of English ivy, were identically dressed in couturiere designed sheath gowns of willow green silk peau de soie in short length with unmounted wrist length sleeves. The bodice featured wide scooped neckline formed a deep U at back, accented at the waist by a bouffant paneled cummerbund in silk organza. With this they wore short velis of the same shade attached to a circlet of pearls and matching satin slippers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Young chose a dress of champagne satin clutch bag on whibodice of bronze lace, worn with a small hat fashioned of bronze sequins with short starched veil and matching gloves. To complete her ensemble, she carried a champagne satin clutch bag on which was pinned her corsage of cymbidium orchids.

The mother of the groom wore a toast sheer silk dress styled with demi - fitted bodice, featuring a wide - away collar and softly pleated bell skirt, with slippers if the same shade. Her elbow length kid gloves matched the small tiger lily white hat chosen to complete her costume. She also wore a corsage of cymbidium orchids.

Following the ceremony the couple was entertained with a reception in the Memorial Student Center. Miss Freda Simmons of Marshall registered guests in the brides book. Assisting in the houseparty were Mrs. John S. Whitley, Miss June Whitley of Palacios, Mrs. Make McDermott and Mrs. Leland Green Jr. of Cameron.

When the couple left on the wedding trip, Mrs. Patranella was wearing a cinnamon and vanilla plaided wool suit with matching stole forming a ring collar. Her accessories of two toned black and French bread calfskin harmonized with her close fitting straw toque. A white orchid was pinned to the wide cape collar of the woll chinchilla coat she carried.

After their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Patranella will be at home in College Station where the bridegroom is a student in range management at A&M College.

The bride attended Sam Houston State Teachers College where she was a member of Sigma Gamma Social Club.

Attending the wedding from Cameron were Mr. and Mrs. Make McDermott, Make McDermott, Jr. Miss Clara Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Nolte, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Green, Jr. and Mrs. J. H. Thomas.

The couple was honored with a rehearsal dinner in the private dining room at the Triangle Restaurant. Host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Luke M. Patranella parents of the groom.

Rockdale Alcoans Work Safer In '61 Than At Home

Rockdale Works Alcoans were more than 10 times safer at work last year than they were at home, tabulations released this week by Works Manager R. R. Sugg revealed.

The more than 900 Alcoans at the Aluminum Company of America plant had only three lost-time injuries during the entire year of 1960, Sugg said, in announcing that Rockdale Works had again won the company's Smelting Division safety trophy in competition with seven other plants.

While recording only the three lost - time injuries at the plant, Rockdale Alcoans reported 34 such injuries resulting from off - the - job activities. These injuries off the job meant a loss of 1089 work days to the employees. On - the - job injuries resulted in a loss of only 176 days.

No lost - time accident has occurred at the plant since last August and nearly one million safe hours have been worked. Pot-room Shift Foreman D. D. White's crew has an outstanding record of more than 930,000 hours without a lost - time accident to a crew member.

"We're shooting for the crew's million - hour mark by next summer," White said.

Two of the three injuries in 1960 were fractures of the feet. The third injury was a fractured finger.

"Despite our good record we will always strive for the year when we have no lost - time accidents," Sugg said. "And I-m concerned because so many of our people are injured away from their jobs. We must do something to improve this situation."

Rockdale Works won Alcoa's Smelting Division safety trophy in 1958 and has been recognized by the Texas Safety Association and the National Safety Council for previous safety records.

Yoe Students To Hear Space Lecture

A lecture demonstration about the space age, which last year entertained millions in New York and Chicago is coming to Yoe High School February 24.

Working models of airplanes, rockets, satellites, space ships and related paraphanalia will be seen by the students as the history of man's effort to conquer outer space is explained to them dramatically. Some of the students are participating in the show by building a finely detailed and highly accurate model of the famous Atlas missile which this year, or early next year, will launch the man - carrying Mercury capsule into orbit.

There are 147 parts to this 11 inch model, including tiny fingures of men on the launching pad. The Atlas model was sent as a gift to the school by the manufacturer.
